My experiences as a local Clinical Andrologist with the Andropenis extender:

I have learned about the Andropenis device 4 years ago by e-mail. I passed the matter to my friend who was a local Pharmacist who decided to bring in the device. I started to write about issues of small penises and curved penises in a local newspaper, in my health column, and the feedback I received was tremendous.

I sold my first Andropenis to a patient with a small penis. He used the device for 4 months and was impressed with the lengthening. A good number of Andropenis was also sold to patients with curved penises. Most of them have direct trauma like fractured penis, and some injured their penises during lovemaking. Plaques developed and hardened over time. I gave these patients high doses of vitamin E and suggest gradual stretching of the penis with extra tension on the bent part. In fact there was a case I remember who'd just had a plaque removal operation done by an urologist and developed shortening of the penis as a consequence, and it was possible to rectify it with the Andropenis I provided.

Some patients tried to apply more traction on their penis than recommended, there was no serious damage to the penis tissues as they experienced pain and had to stop using it for awhile. The maximum lengthening achieved by one of the patients was 5.5cm and he used the device for 8 months. Most of my patients were happy with the 2 and 3cm increase in size obtained. In fact there has been no complaint so far. All my patients have been satisfied with the result.
